

Declared use of 084 phone numbers by NHS GPs in England continues despite breach of many regulations

Use of 084 telephone numbers by NHS GPs has always been a breach of the essential principle that access to NHS treatment is “free at the point of need”. Use of these numbers provides a subsidy towards the cost of the surgery telephone system at the expense of patients.

Since we got involved in attempting to end this abuse, the following has occurred:

- ft The contracts held by GPs in England were amended in April 2010 to prohibit use of these numbers, with a deadline of 1 April 2011 for compliance. (see section 7.4 of the latest version.)
- ft At the beginning of November 2013, NHS England wrote to every practice affected demanding advice of their plans for “swiftly moving away” from use of these numbers. That letter also confirmed that “a two-tier service of an 084 number with queuing and messaging facilities, alongside a local number that relies on a receptionist picking it up, is not a reasonable alternative. The NHS should not offer different levels of service dependent on means to pay”.
- ft New Ofcom regulations were introduced on 1 July 2015. These require the level of the “Service Charge” included in the cost of calling each number to be declared. Reference must also be made to the additional “Access Charge” (of up to 45p per minute) imposed by the caller’s telephone company when calling any premium charge number. Each of the practices listed below has recently received a letter from the ASA, confirming their need to comply.

There follows a list of 52 surgeries for which the practices openly admit to continuing use of 084 numbers through a page of a website that they control. We suspect that there are many other cases, where this ready detection of the breach of the terms of their NHS contract is avoided.

Entries on the list include the applicable level of “Service Charge” for the number and a link to the webpage where the use of the number is declared. They are annotated as follows:

	= The level of “Service Charge” is correctly given - admitting the scale of the breach.
	= The level of “Service Charge” is given incorrectly or omitted.
	Two-tier operation; limited access to the practice is offered on a local number. = For those who care deeply about the unique principles of “our NHS”, this makes the situation even worse, not better - as it relates the quality of service to the price paid.
	Comments are made about the cost of calling and/or the difference about the service offered on the two different numbers. = This confirms the nature of the breach and/or seeks to excuse it.

The accuracy of this information was checked on the date of publication. Please review, using the link given, to ensure that the situation is unchanged at some later date.

Despite having been closely engaged with us over the issue, NHS England is clearly seen to be taking no meaningful action to enforce compliance with the terms of the GP contract. This follows a total failure by the previous regime of PCTs, and may get worse now that enforcement powers are, in many areas, devolved to the GPs themselves - through their CCG.
